Accreditation Crash Course

Focused Site Visit: February 28-29

Gearing Up for the Focused Site Visit

This “Crash Course” document is designed to prepare you for the ACCJC site team visit, the culmination of our comprehensive peer review process. More than 170 Mt. San Antonio College faculty, classified professionals, administrators, and students were deeply involved in developing the 2024 Institutional Self-Evaluation Report \(ISER\) that the College submitted in August 2023. Our theme and “Weaving our Story” logo visually represent the integrated elements of inclusion, diversity, and the voices of Mt. SAC that weave through the ISER narrative.

In October 2023 the ACCJC Peer Team met to complete a team ISER review. The process resulted in the team identifying 5 Core Inquiries for their visit. The site visit will focus only on these Core Inquiries.

ACCJC ISER Review Outcome

During the October ISER review, the ACCJC peer review team developed five Core Inquiries that will serve as the basis of the focused site visit. The core inquiries communicate areas where more information is needed to validate alignment with Standards or develop commendations for areas of excellence.

During late fall and winter, Mt. SAC Core Inquiry Teams worked together to compile additional information and make improvements related to each core inquiry. On February 14th, the College provided the ACCJC with a short narrative and additional evidence, updating the visiting team members on progress and processes related to each Core Inquiry. This report will help to facilitate the team's review process during the site visit.

The Five Core Inquiries

1. Human Resources Evaluation Processes
(Standard III.A.5)
2. Process for Evaluation of Governance Structure
(Standard I.B.7, IV.A.7)
3. Timely and Regular Review of Board Policies and Procedures
(Standard IV.C.7)
4. Regular and Substantive Interaction in Distance Learning Courses

5. GRASP & LEAD Success and Effectiveness

What is Accreditation ?

Accreditation is both a process and a status. As a process, it ensures that institutions of higher education meet established standards of quality and provide educational programs, services, credentials, and credits that students and the community can trust. The process also verifies that institutions have the resources and infrastructure to sustain and improve the quality of their educational offerings and services. As a result of a successful accreditation process, institutions gain an accredited status that qualifies them for federal grants and contracts, enables them to distribute federal financial aid, and ensures that their students can transfer credits to another accredited institution. Many employers also require credentials from accredited institutions as a condition of employment. Ultimately, an accredited status signifies to all interested parties that an institution meets expectations for educational quality, sound institutional practice, and resources for students' success.

What is the Process of Accreditation ?

The ACCJC Commission expects colleges to engage in continuous efforts to sustain and improve educational quality and institutional effectiveness. It requires institutions to undergo a comprehensive peer review for reaffirmation of accreditation every 7 years.

ACCJC's comprehensive peer review process has four steps:

1. Institutional Self-Evaluation and ISER Development
2. Peer Review
3. Commission Review and Action
4. Institutional Response to Recommendations and Ongoing Improvement

Who Accredits Mt. SAC?

The Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges (ACCJC), Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC) accredits community colleges and other associate degree granting institutions in the Western region of the U.S.

The ACCJC is one of seven regional accrediting commissions authorized to operate by the U.S. Department of Education through the Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2008.
