Brief History

Circa 1952. Mt. San Antonio in the background, also known as Mt. Baldy.

As World War II came to an end, local leaders anticipated the return of young students who needed to complete their college education.

A meager budget of $191,790 was pulled together, and furniture was obtained either from surplus war materials or made from apple crates and orange boxes from the surrounding groves. Through dedication and perseverance, the campus community did the impossible. In just two months, they opened classes on September 16, 1946 with 454 men and 181 women registered.

The College community's ability to come together and surmount challenges is still evident today and is affectionately known as the Spirit of Mt. San Antonio College.

The college was initially named Eastern Los Angeles County Community College, and was later renamed after Mt. San Antonio, the snow-capped mountain prominently visible in the distance above campus.

Today, Mt. San Antonio College has emerged as an educational leader in the state of California. It is one of the largest and best-known of community colleges in the country.

Mission

The mission of Mt. San Antonio College is to support and empower all students in achieving their educational goals in an environment of academic excellence. Specifically, the College is committed to providing quality education, services, and workforce training, empowering students to attain success in an ever-evolving diverse, sustainable, global society. The College pledges to serve students so they may achieve their full educational potential for lifelong learning, for attaining certificates and associate and bachelor's degrees, for employment, and for the completion of career and transfer pathways. The College will carry out this commitment by providing an engaging and supportive teaching and learning environment for students of diverse origins, experiences, needs, abilities, and goals. The College is dedicated to serving our community through improving economic achievement; advancing civic engagement and environmental responsibility; enhancing personal and social well-being; developing information and technological literacy, communication, and critical thinking; and enriching aesthetic and cultural experiences.

Mt. SAC is ranked as the #4 Best Community College in California by Niche.
