Transitioning to Online Forms and Processes

With the rapid change to remote working conditions, many documents and processes that have been carried out in person and on paper for years are in sudden need of electronic solutions. A task force, spanning the four major divisions and the President's Office, was convened to identify options for electronic alternatives for the campus. A large task, one which will span several months, is focusing on the critical needs of the campus to start; signatures, and converting paper forms to online solutions. Two major phases of the project have been established:

Phase One

Phase one of this project is underway, with approvals and signatures being piloted by a small group of users. One of the key applications in this first phase leverages the
