

Lunar Eclipse: Visible in the USA January 31, 2018

A rare blue moon lunar eclipse that hasn't been seen in 35 years is coming soon. On the night of January 31st much of America can witness the celestial spectacle of a total lunar eclipse. This happens when the earth passes between the sun and moon, blocking sunlight from reaching the moon. The lunar eclipse will occur at the same time as a blue moon. Blue moon is a term given to the second full moon of a given calendar month. And it will be considered by some a "supermoon," or a full moon that's closer to earth than usual and can appear slightly brighter and larger than normal.

There are 7 stages of a total lunar eclipse:

- Penumbral eclipse begins: This begins when the penumbral part of Earth's shadow starts moving over the Moon. This phase is not easily seen by the naked eye.
- Partial eclipse begins: Earth's umbra starts covering the Moon, making the eclipse more visible.
- Total eclipse begins: Earth's umbra completely covers the Moon and the Moon is red, brown or yellow in color.
- Maximum eclipse: This is the middle of the total eclipse.
- Total eclipse ends: At this stage, Earth's umbra starts moving away from the Moon's surface.
- Partial eclipse ends: Earth's umbra completely leaves the Moon's surface.
- Penumbral eclipse ends: At this point the eclipse ends and Earth's shadow completely moves away from the Moon.

To learn more about the lunar eclipse check out Mt. SAC's Randall Planetarium located in building 26C. For more detailed information call 909-274-5795 or email planetarium@mtsac.edu you can check out their website at <http://www.mtsac.edu/planetarium/>

SCAM

ALERT

Losing weight is the most popular New Year's resolution. But it is also the most likely to get you ripped off: The Federal Trade Commission says that more people are defrauded through weight-loss scams such as "miracle" supplements, "easy" exercising gizmos and "breakthrough" diets than any other product category it monitors.
