This effort is called California Advocates United to Save Education (CAUSE). To date, 36 events have been held statewide. The three main goals of CAUSE are: 1) fix California’s broken school funding process; 2) return California from the bottom five to the top ten in education funding; and 3) expand the middle class to restore funding for education. She invited the Board to learn more about this effort by visiting cause4education.org.

The Legislature has talked about increasing fees to $30 (from $26) and allowing the local community college to keep the $4. Vice President Gregoryk also commented on pension reform. He thinks the State will move to a two-tiered system. Mr. Gregoryk said he expects a late State budget this year which could mean a delay in receiving apportionments. He believes the College would be fine through September, but, after that, it may have to borrow money. The College will bring forward a proposal regarding emergency cash flow for the Board’s review.

Professor Todd said the Relays has a world-wide audience. He shared the number of viewers from the live web cast. It was also noted that the Relays is now on Facebook and Twitter.

10. INFORMATIONAL REPORT

Board members were provided with a written briefing on Building Automation Program to Launch Air Conditioning’s New “Green” Program, prepared by Darrow Soares, Acting Associate Dean, Career & Technical Services.

Mr. Soares reported that on March 1, 2010, Mt. San Antonio College, Rio Hondo College, and Chaffey College were awarded a $2.3 million federal grant through the United States Department of Labor to develop and implement a program that provides training in the Emerging “Green” Building Automation Industry. The 42.5-unit certificate is supplemented by intensive case management and job placement and requires that students use the existing resources of three local community colleges to train for this high-wage, high-skill occupation.

Building automation is defined as a programmed, computerized network of electronic devices that monitor and control the energy consumption of buildings. The intent is to create an intelligent building and reduce energy and maintenance costs. In commercial buildings, most fire-life-safety, lighting, air conditioning, and ventilation systems are automated to manage energy consumption. This has created a strong and sustainable demand for Building Automation Service (BAS) technicians that will continue as long as energy remains a limited commodity.

Building Automation is a sub-sector within the broader industry of Air Conditioning and Refrigeration. This broader industry is expected to grow by 9.1% between 2006 and 2016 in the Eastern Los Angeles metro area with a 13.7 % increase in the Riverside/San Bernardino/Ontario area. In the state of California, the growth rate is projected to be 12.7%. While these numbers show growth in the larger industry, Building Automation is the emerging industry sub-sector and expected to grow at higher rates. Mt. SAC is one of only five colleges in the Western United States to offer a BAS certificate.

The attempt was to form peer groups of similar types. Board members engaged in dialogue about the results and asked Barbara McNeice-Stallard, Director of Research & Institutional Effectiveness, many questions regarding the data and the programs that Mt.
