Restoring Truth:

Academic Freedom in an Age of Censorship

Wednesday, May 14

Bldg. 13 Auditorium, Green Room, & Patio

9:00 am - 9:00 pm

info, freebies, refreshments and more!

Join our Mt. SAC faculty with this 12 interdisciplinary hour teach in. The goal is to explore, through presentations and conversations, what academic freedom means in this moment and why it matters.

Our objects include:

- Defend academic freedom as essential to democratic learning and public accountability.
- Expose the sweeping impacts of federal executive orders attacking DEI, Title IX, LGBTQ rights, immigration rights, and inclusive historical memory.
- Equip the community with the skills to use critical inquiry and academic knowledge to become informed and active participants in American public life.
- Model how faculty across disciplines help our community resist censorship and foster a more just society.

If you have any questions, contact the Humanities and Social Sciences Division Office at 909-274-4570 or hssdiv@mtsac.edu. To request disability related accommodations please contact hsdiv@mtsac.edu at least 5 business days in advance of the event.
