Section 2: Types of Accommodation

When you travel, finding the best accommodation for you is very important. You usually need to consider one important factor when selecting the best accommodation: price. In terms of price, you need to determine your price range. Are you traveling on a budget, or are you going to splurge? Based on your price range, you can select the best accommodation for you. Here are some examples of different types of accommodations:

- A. Conference and Convention Center Hotel
- B. Budget hotel
- C. Luxury Hotel
- D. Resort
- E. Bed and Breakfast
- F. Boutique Hotel

On the next page, you will see pictures that are examples of the types of accommodations listed above. Use the Internet to find the meaning of each type of accommodation, and write the type of accommodation below each picture. Next, write 2 to 3 adjectives that describe the type of accommodation. The first one has been done as an example.
