

Promises That Count Alliance Meeting on February 27th

Dear Los Angeles County College Promise programs,

Two representatives from each College Promise program in Los Angeles are invited to the launch of the Promises That Count Alliance at the California Community Foundation on Wednesday, February 27 from 9:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Promises that Count is a three-year initiative that supports the development, implementation, and continuous improvement of College Promise efforts, with the goal of ensuring stronger academic support and student services in College Promise programs throughout Los Angeles County.

For our initial meeting, you are invited to bring 2 participants - ideally an executive leader and the College Promise program director. Please register your two participants on our eventbrite page.

During the meeting we will:

- Provide a brief history and current landscape of California College Promise
- Describe the ways in which College Promise aligns with other initiatives under the CCCCO's Vision for Success
- Hear from the members of the Promises that Count Community of Practice about the strategies to provide support, develop and strengthen partnerships, communicate effectively, and ensure financial sustainability.
- Highlight the parameters around AB19 (and the potential of AB2) and the ways that programs are using the funding.
